PhD student

UCA CNRS IRD CERDI

2023-PRESENT

Clermont-Ferrand, Fr

- Researching the determinants and allocation mechanisms of climate and development finance in developing countries.
- Employing econometric and machine learning methods to analyze data, focusing on mitigation/adaptation aid and framework (National adaptation plan and NDCs).
- Investigating the role of development finance institutions and climate funds in supporting climate adaptation and resilience.
- Providing evidence on the subnational allocation of climate aid, compared to physical vulnerability to climate change and subnational development outcomes.
- Conduct empirical research on the spatial effectiveness of climate aid in addressing Greenhouse Gas emissions, using satellite-derived emission data (EDGAR) and aid records.
- Teaching assistant for undergraduate economics courses and R programming.
- Teaching assistant in econometrics, bachelor and master degree.

Research assistant

2022-2023

- Conducted data analysis using R on OECD CRS datasets.
- Performed literature reviews and contributed to the drafting of reports and working papers.
- Worked on topics related to development finance, especially private sector instruments (development finance institutions, impact investing).
- Analyzed climate finance flows and climate funds for several working papers.
